

MONUMENT STUDIOS

FANTASY COMPLETE II

A Thank You

Where to start? It's been a pretty wild year and a half since the inception of Monument Studios. As many of you may already be aware, this company is comprised of two individuals -- two brothers that have spent their walk of life dedicated to the pursuit of that something we call music. Our journey has been a long one, spanning a dynamic range from Death Metal record deals to Hip Hop productions. Like so many others, we frequently found ourselves in mental health gray areas, periods of hardship, for what seemed to be an eternity. We've spent well over a decade asking ourselves simple questions: What do we love? What are we good at? Do we really know anything, at all? Is any of this possible? We struggled on the entrepreneur front for, again, what seemed to be a painful eternity, riddled with failure. Then, to make matters worse, COVID-19 dawned upon us all, and the world, our world (for the purposes of this tale), grew even darker and more uncertain. Facing what seemed to be the end, we entered another phase of critical introspection. What do we do? What are we good at, and what would resonate with others at a more intrinsic level? How do we embark on a novel crusade that makes everyone involved happier? We knew we loved entertainment: video games, timeless films, television, etc. Once boiling things down to what now seems to be an obvious distillation, we put all of our chips in and birthed Monument Studios. But it isn't that simple, is it? When the outside world, people you love, tell you what is and isn't possible with your life, it blurs the line between Desire and Reality. That's the other thing we want to stress to anyone who will listen. It is possible. Whatever it is you long to do, do it. Follow it until the end. Follow it through the deepest valleys and back up the highest peaks. And if you don't know, keep trying different things. That's okay, too.

All of you made this possible -- words are simply not capable of expressing the level of love and gratitude we feel, and it grows as time goes on. Fantasy Complete was a wild success, but it wasn't without its flaws. We really do listen to every single thing that you send our way -- and if it's a form of constructive feedback, we promptly implement it. Fantasy II is where we unveil just how much we care and listen. It's all we have. Without you, there is no us. We will always put our Soul into our work and do our very best to accommodate what it is you're looking for. Between the two of us, this installment has over a thousand hours of calculated work put in.

As a final thought, we often try to imagine what the most harmonious existence we could have looks like. So as another step towards this vision, we are donating a % of all proceeds to the fights against Climate Change: ocean cleanup, rainforest protection, all that good stuff.

Without further ado, we humbly present Fantasy Complete II.
